I travel beyond the range and service area of my local radio stations. XM radio provides me with services and information that are not available (e. g. local weather, and traffice) well before I come to the covered locals. I have no way of getting this information at til I get in range of local stations even if I knew which one had the traffic and weather and at what times it was being broadcast. As a planning tool and a way of operating efficiently the system works. It is contstantly available not waiting for "traffic on the 9's".
